 DEDICATED FEDERAL

IMPACT: State

Summary of Legislation: This bill requires the Legislative Services Agency to perform an analysis of the impact that a filed bill or a proposed rule that provides for collection or release of personally identifiable information by the state or a political subdivision will have on the privacy of individuals affected by the bill or proposed rule.

Effective Date: July 1, 2003.

Explanation of State Expenditures: Legislative Services Agency: This bill will increase the time required by Legislative Services Agency (LSA) attorneys to research and draft proposed legislation. The bill will also require LSA attorneys to perform a privacy impact analysis on proposed rules that authorize or require the collection or release of personally identifiable information by the state or a political subdivision. While these requirements will increase LSA's workload, they are not expected to require LSA to hire additional staff.

Agencies with Rulemaking Authority: This bill could increase the administrative burden of agencies with rulemaking authority insofar as it will require them to submit proposed rules that provide for the collection or release of personally identifiable information by the state or a political subdivision to LSA for analysis. It is presumed that any additional administrative costs would be covered using existing staff and resources.
