Explanation of Local Expenditures: The bill could potentially reduce school insurance costs. The impact would depend on the extent schools could jointly purchase insurance. For the 2004 school year, schools spent about $692.2 M on insurance. The expenditures were about $68.1 M greater than the 2003 expenditures of $624.1M. If schools could save 1% statewide, then the savings would be about $6.9 M annually. The most costly type of insurance purchased by schools is health insurance, which makes up about 92% of all insurance costs.
